To Whom It May Concern:

Gator Information Technologies was approached by our firm to develop an online database system. This was initiated to help our various locations track and maintain our equipment as it is transferred between offices and jobsites. Our company provides testing and inspections services for the Oil & Gas, Power Generation, Military and Nuclear Industries and we require a high degree of verification that our equipment is maintained, calibrated and tracked in an efficient manner. We presented our unique problem to Ryan and his team and were pleased with their initial understanding of our request and their proposal to provide a solution.

We have had agreeable reviews during our government and industry audits because of our new ability to upload and track our equipment and instrumentation status at any given point with a moments notice. We have also been pleased with our immediate reduction in man-hours on internal tracking that has resulted in implementing this Gator Information System. We are now looking at other areas of our operations that could benefit from an information system that can be carefully tailored to meet our needs.

We would recommend the services provided by the Gator Information Team without hesitation. The professionalism and dedication to ensuring our every concern was met was a great benefit to our IT staff and management's limited timeframes and specific requirements. Please feel free to contact myself should you have any questions regarding our Gator system.

Sincerely,
